We Look at Ourselves

Whether we knew it or not, this year our education was shaped by a big event in March when the evaluating team from the North Central Association not only conducted its own inspection but examined an intensive self-evaluation done by the faculty and administrators in the fall, All facets of the school and its policies were examined. The committee and faculty scrutinized details ranging from the finances of clubs to the content of the courses in English, from the number participating in sports to the equipment in the Home Economics Department, from the effectiveness of the administration's work to the college credits earned by teachers. Studying the results of this evaluation, the administration can pinpoint both strong and weak areas, gain community support for correcting the weaknesses, and direct long-range planning. With "self-evaluation" in the air this year, we look at ourselves and like what we see.

School and Community

WORK, PLAY, GROW TOGETHER

After presenting gifts to residents of the Krogh Nursing Home, White Caps Sue Fagan and Barb Daily trim a Christmas tree.

We found that strong bonds existed between MHS and the community. Both the public library and children's museum offered us additional educational opportunities. Mishawaka provided us with many recreational outlets. After school and on weekends, we relaxed at the Y, danced at the Meth, skated at Merrifield, played tennis at one of the parks, and joined HAA programs in basketball, football, and bowling, We were part of the economy too. Some of us found jobs in small businesses or at the shopping center to earn money for dates, clothes, and lads. Local corporations offered scholarships to deserving seniors and often promised summer employment during college. The business and vocational departments geared their standards to the demands of local business and industry. In turn business and industry provided jobs for the majority of the graduates. Many MHS graduates returned after college years to enter one of the professions or a business. Among the numerous MHS alumni in the community, there is a keen interest in education and an intense lovalty to Mishawaka High School.

Area service clubs invite 17 seniors to attend their meetings. Kiwanis representative Paul Johnson leaves school to attend a luncheon.

MISHAWAKA HIGH SCHOOL FUNCTIONAL, BEAUTIFUL

Two boys in "printer's paradise" inspect a new $10,000 press which was installed in December.

When we look at our school, we see a building which has stood for more than forty years. Its stately tower and ivy walls reflect a gracious dignity and a timeless appearance not evident in buildings with more modern styles of architecture. A landmark in the community, a symbol to its alumni, and a source of pride to its students, Mishawaka High School wears its years well. This year under the stimulus of Principal Walter E. Thurston, rooms were redecorated and refurnished to meet the changing demands of education and to make a brighter, cleaner atmosphere for learning. We found many freshly painted rooms, 100 new lockers among the newly-painted old ones in the halls, new seats and a new maroon curtain in the auditorium. a new sink in the art room, five new Selectric typewriters in the advanced typing lab, a new printing press in the print shop, bulletin boards covered with colorful burlap in most rooms, and new desks for students and teachers in several classrooms. We heard that in June the chem and physics labs would be torn out and completely redesigned and equipped. With a bit of crowding and great deal of efficient planning, Mishawaka High School provides space for the activities of its 2080 faculty and students.

The installation of new seats and a maroon curtain made the auditorium more attractive.

The new burlap-covered bulletin boards inspired teachers, as Miss Myrna Rogers, to devise clever displays.

Health, Guidance, Audio Visual

SPECIAL SERVICES COPE WITH SPECIAL PROBLEMS

Looking at our health program, we found it complete and efficient. Periodically the school nurse, Mrs. Gladys Conant, gave us vision, hearing, and tuberculin tests.

In extensive records she kept track of our immunization history, health problems, and physical information.

In special programs we could learn to control our weight or to correct a speech impediment.

In the guidance department five specially trained teachers advised us on many problems.

Senior counselors prodded students to sign up for scholarships and gave advice about jobs to vocational students.

Other counselors planned students high school programs to best fit them for post high school years whether a job, armed services, college, or marriage.

In the guidance office student tutors gave special help to students with scholastic problems.

This year the amount of audio-visual equipment increased so teachers could use it more frequently.

Whether it was a movie on civil rights in sociology or a financial statement on the overhead projector in bookkeeping, audio-visual aids made learning easier for us.

Program of Studies

When we looked at our academic program, we were surprised at the diversity of courses in MHS's comprehensive curriculum. Nine courses of study provided for individual needs. College bound students took notes in lecture courses, wrote research papers, and did experiments in labs; other students operated machines used in business and industry. The student who was yet unsure of his vocation could follow the general course and customize it to suit his individual needs. We found something for everyone.

Art and Music

Students Welcome Chances To Use Artistic Talents

MAN OF CLAY. Art V student Mike Morse shapes the figure of a man.

In the music department the new chairman, Mr. John Long, taught a new course, music understanding. In this course students regarded music as one of the humanities. They studied man's physical, intellectual, and emotional response to music, art, and literature. During the second semester in music theory, students learned to distinguish three elements of music: melody, rhythm, and harmony. They analyzed music to determine how it is constructed, how background music is related to the melody, and how the different instruments effect the elements.

Beginning art students learned to appreciate some abstract art, chipped wood carvings, tooled metal designs, and fused glass on copper. In sculpturing they used wood, stone, plastic, wax, and soap as media for their creative ideas.

Advanced art students were encouraged to experiment and to express themselves in many ways whether sketching an outdoor scene, painting a portrait, designing a piece of jewelry, or creating a mosaic. The advanced design class made three-dimensional designs and used a silk screen, while commercial art students designed posters, ads. record covers, magazine formats and television scenery.

TO HEAR THEMSELVES. Brenda Pfaller, Tom Burton, and Mr. John Long record a sonata on the new combination tape recorder-record player.

Business Education

"Teach Girls to Spell,"

TELETRAINER. General Business students learn that a good voice is alert, expressive, natural, pleasant, and distinct. Terrie Ballard talks to complaining customer Mike Bongiovanni and arranges for him to call back.

WORKSHEET, Bookkeeping student Jim Phelps finds the net income on a worksheet before making the statements.

Colorful typing tables and revolving chairs that could be adjusted to individual heights made the typing rooms more attractive and comfortable for typists. In October five manual typewriters in Room 210 were traded for new Selectric typewriters. Typists found it strange to just lightly stroke the return key and have the type ball return on the stationary carriage. Room 209 also acquired a new look. Equipment and furniture were shifted to give the office practice class exclusive use of this small room. The new arrangement gave the girls room to operate the duplicating, adding, and calculating machines and dictaphones.

This year seven business men who hire or train beginning office workers met with the teachers in the department and administrators to evaluate the training of MHS students for office jobs, to offer their advice about the purchase of equipment, and to review the changes in office equipment and procedures. On the advice of this committee, the training in basic skills was intensified. Business teachers changed methods and standards of teaching typing, decreased the time spent learning to mimeograph, and added spelling drills and tests to every business course.

Two surveys were made by the department this year. One showed that there were over 700 jobs in Mishawaka for high school business graduates, that about 60 per cent of the dictation in large industries was transcribed from dictation machines, and that most businesses preferred accurate typists to fast typists. In the other survey the department obtained a profile of the average student in the department; his job preference, his intelligence, his age, his work experience. From the results of these surveys, the department changed the content of courses and considered adding new courses. To judge the effectiveness of the business training, the department plans to do a follow-up study of the 1967 business graduates who get office jobs in Mishawaka.

WORK PAYS. Judy Key and Kim Walters of the affirmative debate team listen as Roger Brady, of the negative team, presents his and Dan Spross's opinion that U.S. foreign policy should be limited to non-military assistance.

1111 FIRST STEP. Learning the techniques of source theme writing, senior Name Names studies the Fundamentals of the Research Paper, a booklet used in both English and International Relations.

While learning the difference between good and well, freshmen touched upon the rules of writing smooth compositions. In the second semester they read short stories, essays, poems, and the novels Great Expectations and David Copperfield.

Enjoying the agonies of writing reports, sophomores learned about unidentified flying objects, extra-sensory perception, and ghosts. Oral book reports on Seventeen and Life on the Mississippi kept them laughing at the adventures of teen-agers long ago. They read various selections in American literature, such as the play, Our Town; the poem, "The Raven"; and the short stories, "The Fall of the House of Usher" and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

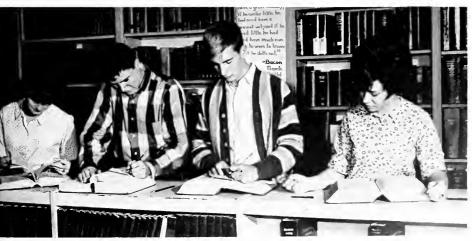

Fascinated juniors delighted in the ghosts and witches of Macbeth, although they were shocked by the results of too much ambition. Their outside reading varied from the satire of Gulliver's Travels to the sadness of Silas Manner. Reading selections in the Narratives from the Old Testament, juniors were moved by the literary qualities and the beauty of the Bible.

Seniors learned to spell and define 1000 vocabulary words ranging from aberration to zenith. They wrote research papers on Junior Achievement, electric automobiles, air pollution, inflation, censorship, and federal aid. In English VIII they studied world literature including Homer's Odyssey and Shakespeare's Hamlet.

WITHOUT WORDS. In a dramatics class pantomine, saleswoman Debbie Werbrouck shows shoes to a difficult customer, Bobbie Harvey.

A NECESSITY. Seniors Brenda Cavanah, Paul Emmert, Bob Raymond, and Doris Montgomery use the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature to find articles on Universal Military Training, electric cars, and U.S. ambassadors.

CHECKING THE OIL. Under the direction of Mr. Don Cromer, Karl Harris and Stan Denney check a drivers ed car.

NO CAVITIES, Mr. Max Eby points out the different parts of the tooth to Cheri Seaman. Health students learn that the average MHS teen-ager has seven teeth decaved, missing, or tilled.

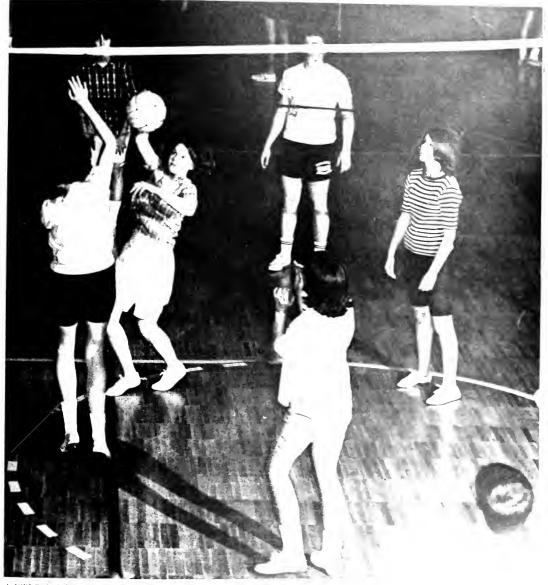

Learning mechanical skills and practicing physical skills, MHS students drove cars, practiced flips, and lifted weights. Three students, one nervous teacher, and one expensive car equaled part of a drivers education class out on an educational drive. Driving on ice and parallel parking were two harrowing experiences for student drivers.

Developing skill and coordination, girl gym students on the north side of the curtain bowled, square danced, and played badminton; boys on the south side of the curtain boxed, lifted weights, and ran around the balcony of the gym. The girls practiced tennis, golf, and archery, while the boys ran relays, high jumped, and pole vaulted.

In health classes students found data on current problems in books and reports on narcotics, alcoholism, and smoking. A special report on LSD stressed the danger of "trips" except under rigidly controlled medical supervision. Health students learned that the average MHS teenager has seven teeth decayed, missing, or filled.

Part of MHS's health and safety program was not in the classroom. For the seventeenth year MHS won a plaque for the excellence of its safety program. Mrs. Gladys Conant, the school nurse, administered first aid, gave health advice, and supervised the health testing programs. Out of 1056 tuberculin tests she gave this year only four had positive reactions. The results of these tests became part of the student's permanent health record as did the results of the hearing and vision tests given to sophomores and new enrollments.

✓ Language

Maps, Tapes, and Films

VICTORY CUSTOM. Two Latin students go "under the yoke." This was called sub iugum by the Romans, who sent their conquered enemies under the voke. This punishment was a terrible disgrace, even worse than death.

Preparing for college, many MHS students chose to study Spanish, French, Latin, or German to earn their two units in language. Spanish students gained fluency in speaking by writing out exercises as homework and reciting them in class. During the second semester a Cuban student teacher, Senor Norberto Gutierrez told tales of his Spanish background. Students in first year Spanish gave talks on everyday experiences, such as going to the store; second year students wrote book reports on Platero y Yo, Dona Perfecta, and many other Spanish

While Spanish students read stories and gave talks, French students saw filmstrips in the language lab, sang French songs, tape recorded lessons, and kept notebooks. Two of the films that they saw were on southern France and the Renaissance period.

First year Latin students listened to records and studied basic grammar. Students in Latin II continued the study of grammar and read legends of famous men such as the story of Horatius at the bridge. Vocabulary notebooks including gender, root words, and parts of speech helped when reviewing at exam time. In advanced Latin, students translated legends, Cicero's orations, and the history of the Gallic Wars in Caesar's time.

Making vocabulary notebooks, going to the language lab, and having question-and-answer periods inspired German students. In addition, they studied German customs and history, frequently recorded conversations in German, and listened to German records.

Enrich Language Classes

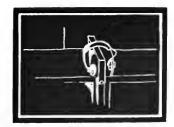

LOUD AND LIVELY. Students enjoy learning Spanish through music in Miss June Johnston's Spanish class. This was a change from grammar exercises. Lively songs such as La Cucaracha (the Cockroach) were fun to sing.

GOOFS IN GERMAN. Fom Gran, Kent karnes, Jerry Graybosch, and Keith Cooper tape a conversation in German class. By running the tape back, students can recognize their grammatical errors and difficulties in pronunciation.

THOSE VERBS! Helping Suzanne Green conjugate a difficult verb is Miss Anne Marie Vanvolsem, the new French teacher.

CRESCENT ROLLS. Senior Karin Sailor takes yeast rolls off a cookie sheet. Foods II girls make rolls from basic ingredients.

BEUEPRINTS Shirley Pletcher, Candy Shannon, and Mary Lou Hixenbaugh study blueprints for traffic patterns.

Home Ec classes prepared girls for the role of homemaker. In studying the principles of design, Clothing I girls constructed pajamas and robes of cotton. Pressing and lining wool garments presented problems for Clothing II students, most of whom had never worked with wool before. Girls in Clothing III made two dress-up dresses. Most of them were of brocade, satin, velvet, or lace. To gain practical tailoring experience, Clothing IV girls made suits, coats, and skirts.

Breakfast and lunch dishes and simple deserts, such as puddings and custards, delighted Foods I students. Girls in Foods II made more complicated dishes as they planned family meals. By comparing food values, they learned to judge which brand of food was best for the price.

Foods III girls learned new and easier ways of preparing a meal, as they studied equipment and set tables. Proud and excited, the girls operated a tea room and invited guests to eat nutritious and attractive lunches.

Child care class began with courtship and marriage and traced the development of a child spiritually, mentally, and physically to the age of six. Home nursing gave girls experience in taking care of illness in the home.

Gasping or grinning as they recognized improper lighting or poor placement of equipment in their homes, home management girls took hints home to their parents. Remodeling a room was a practical lesson in learning fix-it-yourself techniques. They learned the necessities of a home such as plenty of closet space.

3-D DRAWINGS. Instructor Mr. Edward Fleming helps Gerald Czaskowski lay out a three-dimensional mechanical drawing in Drafting L.

NEW TRAINIR Vocational deline shop students Mike Morrison Richar! Literature and Mike Irvine set up a circuit on the new De Vis basic electricity trainer.

Show Boys' Drawing Skills

"It's neat!", "Is it for real?", and "Did the woodshop boys make this?" exclaimed students as they spied the display of articles in the main lobby. Creating all kinds of things from chessboards and fruit bowls to tables and chests of drawers, the boys in vocational wood shop turned raw pieces of wood into beautiful, finished objects.

In other vocational shops machinists worked with metal on such machines as the drill press, milling machine, and metal lathes, used precision instruments, and made small tools of the machinists' trade. Student electricians learned to wire a room, to repair household appliances and electrical machines, to construct aircraft receivers and stereo hi-fi sets. During the Christmas holidays a new $10,000 printing press replaced the old one. On this press and on other equipment, the print shop boys ran off the Alltold and printed forms and programs for the school city. In the only high school print shop in St. Joseph County, vocational printing students designed projects and hand set the type for them. In vocational machine drafting, boys drew detailed plans of machines showing three dimensions and sometimes designed their own machines to meet particular needs. Other advanced drafting students drew house plans and constructed balsa wood models of their houses.

As boys prepared to take more advanced vocational courses, elevengirls invaded the predominately male shops to learn the skills that they will need in their own homes: reading gas meters, refinishing furniture, and replacing damaged electrical plugs. This home management class, under the direction of Mr. Milt Ross, also computed electricity costs, spliced wires, and replaced broken panes of glass.

ACCURACY COUNTS. Carefully plotting a set of points, junior Roger Brady graphs a linear equation in Algebra III.

Students Strain Minds To Conquer Modern Math

It works! A joyous shout followed the realization that a problem came out right. All math students faced new and greater challenges in their classes. Modern math still puzzled many MHS'ers.

In freshman algebra the students learned basic principles such as the structure of the real and natural number systems. The concept that everything is a member of a set is a basic principle of modern math. In advanced algebra, students solved trigonometric equations and reviewed the uses of sets. They also learned to draw accurate graphs.

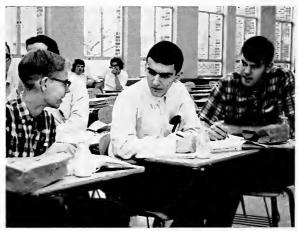

Thinking systematically, young mathematicians proved theorems using basic definitions and corollaries. They also found the areas of geometric figures such as trapezoids and parallelograms.

In senior math, students reviewed trig and used logarithms to solve problems. Most seniors found that limits of sequences posed their most difficult problems. Using the laws of probability, they estimated the chances of two "fives" turning up on a throw of five dice.

On March 9 interested juniors and seniors took a national math contest sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries. The three highest juniors and the three highest seniors qualified for a regional math contest. Seniors who qualified: Mike Alford, John Kedik, and Kirk Pletcher; juniors: Randy Shayler, Mary Jane Dexter, and Dennis Cackowski.

A STUDY OF CHANCE. Senior math student Mike Alford demonstrates the laws of probability with the use of dice.

"I haven't seen any female tortoises come running in when they hear it!" commented Mr. James Braunsdorf about his record of a 400-year old tortoise calling its mate. This record was used in the study of sound in physics classes. On the oscilloscope, used in the study of sound and electricity, hundreds of different designs and patterns flashed across a screen similar to a television screen. The designs and patterns were formed by a little dot which could move across the screen 500,000 times a second.

Sophomores taking biology during summer school falteringly collected fluttering or squirming bugs, whereas those taking biology in the fall semester made leaf collections. This year the science department adopted new textbooks. The biologists enjoyed the new books with colorful and informative diagrams and illustrations.

On some lab days chemistry teacher Mr. Charles Karst thought some students were conspiring to blow up MHS; but during some lecture demonstrations the students were very sure Mr. Karst would blow the roof off! CURRENT EVENTS. Junior Beth Otterstein reads an article concerning the controversy over The Death of a President in the American Observer, a newspaper received in U.S. History classes.

Using Photographic Essays,

"This is homework?" asked many sociology students as Mr. Richard Bottorff put his "customized" assignment patterns into effect. Under this plan each student did projects in the manner that he preferred. While outgoing, talkative students took surveys, photographers took pictures relating to social problems and presented them as photographic essays. In this way students enjoyed achieving the objective of the course: to apply logical thinking in order to understand the other person's point of view.

As U.S. History students debated the causes and effects of wars, government students investigated the many facets of local government. To see the City Council in action, these students attended the Council meetings and wrote up their opinions of the often tense sessions.

Almost thirty seniors each semester signed up for the challenging international relations class. To write short source themes, they hunted for facts on such topics as the Cuban missile crisis, the Bay of Pigs, and the apartheid in South Africa.

In economics classes the wit of Mr. Delmar Anderson from Uni-Royal and Mr. Robert Christianson from Christianson Furniture Corporation generated bursts of laughter and knowledge in the students. Mr. Anderson, Director of Economic Information, told the class that UniRoyal furnishes the most jobs in Mishawaka and that its payroll is the biggest in the community.

Activities

When we looked at our club program, we found it hard to limit ourselves to three activities. There was a club to provide an emotional or educational outlet for just about anything we were interested in. But we soon found that it wasn't all fun and games. Raising money, club members sold everything from sectional top hats and do-nothing bows to mistletoe. We found that our extra-curricular activities are important in our formative high school years.

Hurry To Make Deadlines

"Where's my head?" was the cry as rushed editors searched for their headlines in room 219. Editors manipulated slide rules to meet engraving deadlines, pushed sales for subscription deadlines, and wrote copy to meet printing deadlines.

Each member of the staff played an important part in the development of this book. Designing the cover, drawing sketches, and making the printer's layout was the work of Art Editor Fave Walters, Underclass Editors Laureen VanderHeyden and Priscilla Spencer arranged the schedule of underclass pictures. The editors alphabetized picture packets and distributed them to sponsor rooms, After a Miskodeed assembly Circulation Manager Dianne Deethardt and Business Manager Kathleen Hoogland sold over 1300 books. Senior Editor Pat Siri scheduled the seniors' pictures and sought information on their four years in school. Faculty Editor Diane Claevs planned teacher pictures with a bit of action for her section. Student Life Editor Brenda Cavanah's section pictured the gay times in and out of school. Seeking facts for her copy, Academic Editor Pam Karnes appeared in many classrooms. Jean Gleissner and Nancy Cook, activities editors, found it hard to write about inactive clubs, while Sports Editors Bill Coleman and Larry Guyton discovered it was easier to write about winning teams. Typing copy, keeping the books, or running the mimeograph machine was the responsibility of Office Manager Nancy De-Laurelle, Photographer Peter Dexter took the informal pictures for the book. Editor-in-chief Gary Harmon checked all the copy and pictures before sending them to the printer. Work on the 1967 Miskodeed was under the supervision of Miss Martha Miller.

Miss Eberle New Advisor

"All feet lead to the Alltold" and other lively slogans launched an impressive circulation drive to attract newspaper subscribers. The staff members handed out Alltolds to the freshmen on Orientation Day so they could get a sneak preview. Shortly after the drive, the business staff boasted approximately 650 subscribers.

"I-Sights," predicted the outcome of the local team each week, "Mary's Musings" added a little culture to the paper with a column about books and movies, and "Mike's Memos" was an old favorite. To emphasize special events, the 50 staff members distributed special issues for Homecoming, Christmas, the basketball tourney, and Commencement.

The Alltold acquired a new look with new advisor Miss Janet Eberle. Staff members formed a new editorial board consisting of the page editors and editor-in-chief. Before the lively, controversial editorials appeared in the paper, the editorial board had to approve them. With the new equipment acquired from Andros Studio, the staff developed their own pictures in the dark room.

Quill and Scroll members qualified for membership in this honor society by doing outstanding work on one of the publications. In April the group sponsored the Press Dinner and heard Miss Karen Klink talk. Members compiled and edited material from the English classes for the school literary magazine.

Impressive NHS Induction, Gay Thespian Initiation

Who knows? There may be a future Julie Andrews or Rock Hudson in the group. In any event, 25 new members were initiated into the Thespians in December. Another group, mostly juniors, joined in the spring. To be a Thespian, a student carned points by acting in a class play, serving on a play committee, or being a drama student. Mr. James Wright served as sponsor of this group, the Emily K. Davidson Troupe 496.

At the two National Honor Society inductions on November 23, 1966, and March 15, 1967, new members shed some happy tears when they realized they had won membership in the group. At the November ceremony Miss Marie Thurston, retired principal from Alexandria, Indiana, spoke; and in the March ceremony Dr. John J. Young gave his last talk at an NHS induction as the superintendent of schools. NHS members were selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, service, and character by the faculty. Mr. Merle Blue served as sponsor.

The Board of Control consisted of seven faculty members appointed by the principal and six students elected by their classmates. At their monthly meetings this board examined and approved the budgets of the various school organizations.

NEW LOOK. Student Council member Mike Kuharic uncovers the mace used in the new formal opening of the council.

In New Opening Ceremony

Homecoming! A giant pep session—a big parade—crowning the queen—victory over South Bend Central—dancing to the MRQ's. The Student Council masterminded Homecoming plans, Other Council successes were the five buses of MHS students to Michigan City for the Red Devil football game and the four MHS buses to the Muncie South Side High basketball game. Student Council members provided sandwiches and soft drinks.

Student Council meeting openings took on a new look this year. Instead of the president pounding the gavel, the council opened with the parliamentarian reading a short speech. The covered mace, representing the four classes, meant the council was not in session; uncovered, the council was in session.

The Council raised funds to bring a foreign student to MHS by collecting change at a basketball game, in sponsor rooms, and in the halls. Since Adolfo Henriquez, the AFS student this year, came from Chile, the Student Council flew the Chilean flag.

Students and townspeople delighted in hearing a Council-sponsored program in November presenting the Purdue Glee Club. The Council's Mid-Semesters' Dance planned for January 27 was canceled due to the big snow. The MRQ's played for the dance in March. These activities were under the leadership of the new council sponsor, Mr. David Robertson, and advisers to the social committee, Miss Thelma Martin and Mr. Lloyd Wayne.

It's Christmas at MHS;

CLEAN UP. Y-Teens clean up the old band office, getting it ready for Y-Teen use. It will be used to store equipment and to hold officers' meetings.

As members of the school's biggest club, over 200 Y-Teens plunged into a year of activities. Often joining with the Hi-Y, they shared, sang, and decorated a Christmas tree. Activities began with a get-acquainted picnic at Merrifield Park in September. The Jongluers, an all girl folk group from St. Joe, entertained the club with "Rock My Soul," "If I Had a Hammer," and "Michael."

Ambitious Y-Teens decorated a float to enter in the Homecoming competition. Hi-Y officers escorted the queen and her court onto the field during half time. In November members and their mothers viewed a modern religious movie, listened to Rev. Garry Hesser, and entered into a lively discussion at the annual Recognition Service. Twice during the year Mr. Ward Baker spoke to the freshman and sophomore Y-Teens on boy-girl relations.

The holiday season brought a flurry of activities for Y-Teen and Hi-Y members as they joined in the annual Share Project. Volunteer members ran the booth where they collected money, potators, and canned foods. Y-Teens hung the greens at the South Bend YWCA and helped to trim the Christmas tree the Hi-Y purchased for the main hall. Four TB seals adorned each Christmas card the Hi-Y mail service delivered to MHS students. Games, refreshments, and a skit delighted Y-Teens at their Christmas party.

At the start of the second semester Y-Teens attended a potluck dinner in the cafeteria. A May dessert and style show where Y-Teens modeled new styles ended a busy year for the Y-Teens.

Mrs. Patricia Smith became the new Y-Teen head sponsor. Hi-Y sponsors were Mr. Don Portolese and Mr. John Chelminiak.

HIGH SCHOOL RED CROSS. Room representative Cathy Riederer, school representative Mary Hunter, and room representative Cheryl Tagliaferri inspect a poster used by the American Red Cross.

Twenty members of the High School Red Cross made regular visits to the Krogh Nursing Home. At Christmas each girl gave a small gift to the woman she visited. Mary Hunter and Marlene and Darlene McCandlish served as school representatives. Miss Rebecca Kabel sponsored the group.

Volunteering to help, the members of the White Caps made dressings for the St. Joseph County Cancer Society and bibs for the Children's Hospital. Speakers talked to the club on the fields of study and opportunities open to young people in health careers. Sponsored by Mrs. Gladys Conant, the club ended the year with a picnic at Merrifield Park and the election of officers.

Parties, movies, and slides highlighted the Hoosier Student Librarians' meetings. Cries of "hats for sale" rang out as members earned $140 by selling top hats to sectional fans. Sponsored by Mrs. Helen Teeters, the members scheduled a May picnic.

Sponsor Mr. Edward Fleming directed the Stage Crew as they erected scenery and prepared the stage for assemblies. Under the direction of Mr. Al Dalkowski, the Ushers Club seated visitors and passed out programs at the Vespers Service and class plays. The Hall Guides ran errands for the teachers, directed visitors and picked up absence slips under the supervision of Miss Helen Stoddart.

AFS Students Discuss School Differences

HISTORY CLUB OFFICERS—(standing) Treasurer Pepperman, Vice-Historian Zicke. Sergeant-at-arms Pooley, Grand Historian Wise, Chaplain Bellovich, and (kneeling) Scribe Jasiewicz.

A panel discussion with foreign exchange students from Chile, Honduras, Austria, and Japan provided an interesting program and a better understanding of the foreign countries for the members of the International Relations Club. Mr. Tom Amos, former Peace Corps volunteer and now history teacher at Mishawaka High School, gave an informative talk about his adventures and the rewards he earned in the Peace Corps. Scenes from the Italian Riviera and breathtaking pictures of the Alps were presented by Fred Schulte, an AFS student during the summer months, to the members of the International Relations Club. Adolfo Henriquez, Fred's "brother," spoke about his native land, Chile. In its second year, after a campaign to attract additional juniors to the club, the International Relations Club boasted a membership of close to 40 juniors and seniors. With the theme "Happiness Is a Bearskin" club members dressed in barrels presented a roly-poly appearance at the Homecoming Parade.

The International Relations Club contacted the organization of the Little United Nations in South Bend. The members debated whether to join that group, to form their own Little United Nations, or to go in with groups in eastern St. Joseph County.

In Jim Wise's garage a big hot griddle took shape as History Club members made a framework, painted letters, and stuffed paper napkins in chicken wire to build a float for the Homecoming Parade under the direction of Mr. Robert Heck, the new sponsor. Officers for the club were Grand Historian Jim Wise, Vice-Historian Pam Zieke, Treasurer Woods Pepperman, Chaplain Mike Bellovich, Sergeant-atarns Will Pooley, and Scribe Linda Jasiewicz.

Teachers Honored by Clubs

Cadet teachers from the Future Teachers of America Club led songs, told stories, and helped with reading circles at Beiger School. Miss Emily Davidson and Mr. Walter Johnson, FTA sponsors, encouraged cadet teaching in the elementary schools. In a new program this year fifteen FTA members worked at South Side School with underprivileged children. By giving them special tutoring, they hoped to interest the children in doing better school work.

Belonging to the FTA was not all work. Members sold popcorn balls at the Homecoming game, heard Mr. Thomas Amos speak about teaching fundamentals, and planned "Dear Teachers Week." During that week teachers received kind words, apples, and many thank-you's from the club. A banquet honoring the senior members was the last event of the year.

"Dear Teachers Week" also appeared on the agenda of the Book Guild. Members served cookies and coffee to the teachers at a faculty meeting. At the Halloween meeting the "bookworms" played literary charades; at the Christmas meeting they exchanged paperback books. With sponsors Mrs. Harriet Nye and Miss Marie Chadwick the members attended a theater party and visited the new Elkhart High School and the South Bend Library. Presenting a "Literary Tour of Europe," Mrs. Nye showed slides of her recent trip, which included the birth-places of famous authors, a country churchyard, Notre Dame Cathedral, and scenes of Westminster Abbey.

Home Ec Club Peddles Mistletoe in Cafeteria

ICKY GOO. Endurance is needed as Vicki Rose and Martine Boehnlein pull taffy at a Home Ec Club party. Later the taffy was cut, bagged, and sold to members.

"Mistletoc, buy your mistletoe," was heard in the cafeteria as Home Ec Club members sold mistletoe during lunch hours before the Christmas holidays. Selling mistletoe netted the club a $30 profit. At the Christmas party the club exchanged gifts and pulled taffy which they later sold within the club. The girls had sticky fingers again when making popcorn balls for a sale in February. Proceeds from these sales were used to purchase glass cups for the punch bowl and a lace table-cloth for school teas.

One of the highlights of the year for the Home Ec Club was the Mother-Daughter Banquet in April. Dining away from school for the banquet, the members installed officers and presented gifts to Miss Charlotte Bragg and Mrs. Nancy Byrd, teachers in the Home Economics Department and club sponsors. Not all activities involved food. For the Homecoming game with South Bend Central, the club made a float with the theme "The Only Good Bear Is a Caged Bear."

Two trips were planned for the spring. A tour of the Gas Company included a meal with deliciously garnished dishes properly served. A trip to Pokagon State Park in May offered a chance for swimming in Lake James, hiking, and horseback riding. Food was prepared by the girls on outdoor grills for their lunch and supper meals. Home Ecclub members passed Lifesavers on toothpicks in a relay game and enjoyed a potluck picnic at a fall outing at Merrifield Park.

HOME EC CLUB OFFICERS. Treasurer Vicki Rose, President Pam Karnes, Secretary Judie Emmons, and Vice-President Diana Lawson select flowers to make colorlul arrangements for the April Mother-Daughter banquet.

COMMERCIAL CLUB OFFICERS—Secretary Joyce Decker, Treasurer Maxine Spalazzi, President Deann Goegebeur, and Vice-President Linda Johnson plan the program for the Commercial Club banquet.

Banquet Highlights Commercial Club Year

One of the largest and most active organizations at MHS was the Commercial Club, made up of 193 business students. They made a profit while developing business skills by selling candy, soft drinks, and other eatables at the home basketball games. New members provided entertainment for the Halloween initiation by improvising one-minute talks on zany topics or performing laugh-provoking stunts. Guests at the Christmas party were three 1966 business graduates of Mishawaka High School, Judy DeRue, Sandra VanBruaene, and Judy VanderBeke. They told of the experiences in getting their jobs and gave advice about what to do on the job. At the Christmas party members exchanged gag gifts and decorated a tree which they later gave to the Goodwill Industries.

At another meeting Miss Judy Jones and three other girls from the Indiana Bell Telephone Company presented a skit to show the right and wrong ways of making a job interview.

At the big event of the year, the Commercial Club banquet, business men, administrators, and alumnae watched the winners of the Commercial Club contest receive pins for their high scores. A representative from UniRoyal presented a trophy to the most outstanding business major in the Senior Class chosen by the business teachers. The winner's name was inscribed on a plaque hung in Room 209, the Business Education Department office.

Miss Helen Green served her first year as sponsor of the Commercial Club. She was assisted by Miss Mary Dunn, Mrs. Iris Weiss, Mrs. Jan Nicodemus, and Miss Myrna Rogers, business teachers.

LATIN CLUB OFFICERS. Sergeant-at-arms Michael Alford, Vice-President Beth Otterstein, Secretary Becky Smith, and Treasurer Pat McGee gather around President Fred Schulte to read the Roman news.

Foreign Language Clubs

Activities for the Latin year MMCCIXX began with students supplying the energy and Miss Mary Hess supplying the hamburgers as the Latin Club float was built. In December the toga-clad youths exchanged candles at the Roman Saturnalia. Speaking before the group, Fred and Katherine Schulte showed slides of their European trips. In the spring members enjoyed a Roman style banquet.

Telling of his native Chile, Adolfo Henriquez spoke at the Spanish Club. Guided by Adviser June Johnston, the club broke a pinata and shouted Spanish greetings at the Christmas party. Members earned money through a taffy sale in April.

Miss Anne-Marie Vanvolsem, new French Club adviser from Belgium, suggested many new ideas for this year. President Barbara Kleiser portrayed Joan of Arc on the French Club float. Inviting Principal and Mrs. W. E. Thurston as guests to their Christmas party, the members sang French carols and filled forty shoe boxes with candy for needy children. With the club paying the dues, the French Department joined the Federation of French Alliances in the United States. Three club members who entered a contest wrote essays on the "Influence of French on the American Culture."

At a German Club meeting members and Sponsor Judith Gowing viewed slides of picturesque Germany. This was Mrs. Gowing's first year as sponsor. After electing officers, members built a float for the Homecoming Parade. To celebrate a famous German Holiday, the club held a Karneval Party. "Auf Wiedersehen" was the cry as members completed their German year at a spring banquet.

Any boy who enjoyed working with his hands could join the MHS Craftsmen Club. At the twice-a-month meetings members worked individually on projects in the wood and machine shops. Special projects ranged from the construction of furniture for a home or water skis to special tools for repairing cars. Advising the boys were Sponsor Kenneth Armel and Assistants Milton Ross, Gerald Gerard, and Jerry Shaw.

A man with his own factory and 250 patents to his credit is an interesting individual. Science Club members thought so as they gathered to hear Mr. John Borah. Mr. Borah encouraged the members to make inventions and told how he succeeded as an inventor. Representing UniRoyal, Mr. Paul Cripe spoke to the club on the different kinds of lab work done at his company.

On a trip to the Bendix Corporation, the club conformed to U.S. Navy security regulations before seeing the Talos missile. They also watched the computers file 500 cards a minute or find a fact in less than a second. Using computers, the Bendix personnel play war games for serious purposes. Several schools in the area rent time on these computers.

After Christmas as a special project, members experimented with different types of ancient methods of measuring time. Participants, working in the chemistry lab, created hour-glasses filled with sand and water, clepsydras or Chinese water clocks, and Egyptian sun dials. Sponsor Charles Karst was assisted by Mr. Earl Stine, Mr. Robert Smith, and Mr. James Braunsdorf.

LIVING TRFF. Art Club members place Christmas trimmings on a silent Paul Wanters as part of their party festivities.

Masterpieces, and Missiles

Under the watchful eyes of Miss Rosa Weikel, the Art Club created an ever changing scene in Room 202. Working with delicate movements, the members made and sold Christmas corsages for a profit of $25.

Serving others, the Art Club painted scenery, made posters, and designed table decorations for out-of-school organizations. Members earned points toward awards if they were not paid for these projects.

But it was not all work for the talented artists in the club. Sharing a picnic in the fall, decorating a living tree at their Christmas party, and sketching at a spring picnic, members enjoyed a gay time. Trips to the South Bend Art Association and Notre Dame Gallery and a speech on antiques rounded out the year.

Also traveling away from the school, the Math Club visited the computer division of the Bendix Corporation. Later, Mr. Al Geist spoke to the club on computer programming and the opportunities for careers for mathematicians.

Organized to promote interest in math, the club was sponsored by Mr. Warren Rietveld, Mr. August Bactsle, and Mr. William Phillips. Every three weeks members received puzzle problems to solve and return. For a club discussion some of the mathematicians took an exam with tricky logic problems and then explained the solutions.

Choir Sings on Radio and Television Shows;

SILENT NIGHT. Juniors Debbie Werbrouck and Beth Otterstein in A Cappella Choir practice their music for Christmas Vespers and caroling in the halls.

The day started early. It was a long day but a great day for the 83-voice A Cappella Choir. The choirs of only two high schools in Indiana were invited to sing at the Indiana Music Educators Association meeting held at the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis on November 19. The Mishawaka choir was one of them. After entertaining the association with folk songs, classical music, and religious songs, the choir members toured the state buildings and stores in Indianapolis. Although this was the farthest the choir traveled, they also provided fifteen other programs during the year, including Christmas Vespers, the May Festival, a Christmas television show over WSBT-TV, and an FM Christmas Eve broadcast.

The A Cappella Choir raised funds for the year by selling its own recordings, Exchange Club football cushions, and tickets to the Purdue Glee Club Concert. During the Christmas holidays Director John Long invited the group to his home for a party. After eating, the choir sang just for the fun of it. During Easter vacation the choir performed at a service at the First Methodist Church.

New members of the Music Honor Society auditioned for Mr. John Long, sponsor; Mrs. Lawrence Gard, music teacher at Beiger; and several Music Honor members. In January thirteen musicians joined the society. These new members and the old performed at the Stage Fright Concert on May 18. Using the theme "We won't play second fiddle to a bear, the honor society's float captured the prize for the most appropriate theme in the 1966 Homecoming Parade.

Sound of Music Selections Featured at Winter Concert

The plucking of the violin strings, the rumbling of the drums, and the tooting of the horns drifted from Room 248 before Conductor Madolin Hackett lowered the baton to start a fifth hour orchestra practice. This year the membership of the orchestra increased to sixty musicians. From the third violins to Concertmistress Brenda Pfaller, members worked to blend their talents to achieve melodious results.

During the year the orchestra performed often. While other students enjoyed themselves, twenty members of the orchestra played for the North Central Teachers Association. The Theater Orchestra entertained audiences before and during the intermissions of the class plays. On December 2 the Concert Orchestra staged its Winter Concert. Solos by Paula Dexter on the piano and Doug Overman and Kathy Koleszar on clarinets were the highlights of the evening. During the concert Diane Whitaker sang If I Loved You with the accompaniment of the orchestra. The Concert Orchestra presented an assembly to the freshmen and sophomores in January. At the annual Orchestra Festival Steve Chung played a Boccherini Concerto solo. Playing the recessional at Commencement, the Concert Orchestra ended its year.

Smaller groups often played for out-of-school audiences. A trio consisting of cellist Steve Chung, pianist Paula Dexter, and violinist Brenda Pfaller played at the PTA Founders' Day Dinner, for the Fellowship Club, and at the football banquet. In the regional music contest at Washington High School, Emily Germano, Brenda Pfaller, and Becky Darbin won superior ratings.

Appearing in new red and white costumes, the pompon and twirler girls added sparkle to the band. Carrying new pompons of net, the girls stepped lightly in white boots to the tunes of the style of the Tijuana Brass.

Completing the marching season, the band celebrated at their second annual banquet at Garrett's Restaurant. Loving cups, dancing awards, and old music sheets were given as gag gifts to the lucky winners.

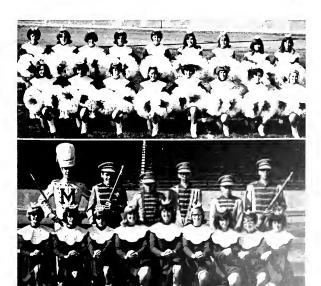

In November band members carned 8700 selling candy and elected Mark Swanson, president; Phil Heston, vice-president; and Paula Dexter, secretary.

Sounds of clarinet music drifted forth at the winter concert held in January. Combining with a junior high band, the Concert Band presented the Spring Band Festival. The May Festival and the Memorial Day parade ended the activities of a busy musical year.

IMBRIES DET TO OF COURT OF THE GLAND TO THE HAVES COURT OF THE GRAND TO THE GRAND T

Student Life

We looked at our crowded schedules and wondered how we could attend all the football games, dances, and club meetings and still have time for movies, sledding, and just plain goofing off with our friends. Homecoming, class plays, Christmas Vespers, club banquets, picnics highlighted the calendar. We rented tuxedoes and bought new formals for the Prom and the Mistletoe Ball.

We found our social lives "fun."

VICTORY. The MHS team hustles to the field for the Marian game. It was MHS's first encounter with the Knights, and the Cavemen beat them.

Teens Dig Out Alarm Clocks, Buy Books,

SERVICE. Beverly Nichols shops for supplies in the cafe. The new system of buying supplies helped avoid long lines.

After a long, lazy summer we were suddenly faced with the prospect of buying books, getting up early, giving up our days at the lake, buying football season tickets, and scrabbling over the lower locker shelf. Before Labor Day we spent hours waiting to see our counselor so we could get three classes, hour and a half lunches or the right teacher. Flitting from one locker to another on registration day, we took time from our scholastic life to find out what had happened to our friends over the summer.

After long and hectic days at school, we often hurried home to raid the icebox only to rush back for the get-acquainted parties of the different clubs. In the afternoon we saw the different teams practicing: the football team jumping at hanging targets, the tennis team slamming balls against a practice board, and the cross country team jogging around the mile track at Merrifield Park. We were glad we weren't in their shoes.

We were busy getting acquainted with the school too. Boys found that this year the Beatle look was outlawed at school; and many of them decided that they would rather switch than fight. Freshmen watched sanding demonstrations, learned about library rules, and took reading tests. Underclassmen primped for Miskodeed pictures while juniors and seniors used eighth hours to meet representatives from colleges and technical schools. We soon came to regard all the hurrying as a routine part of high school life.

HOT DOGS. Becky Smith serves Adollo an American favorite, a hot dog. Seniors first met Adolfo at a picnic at Faye Walters' home in early September.

Welcome Adolfo to MHS

We found that one of the fun things of being back in school was meeting new friends and welcoming back old "buddies," Some upperclassmen gave up a little bit of their spare time on Freshmen Orientation Day to show freshmen how to find their way around a big school like MHS and tried to calm their jitters about high school life.

New teachers were greeted warmly. Many of them had new ideas which tickled our imagination and made us want to learn more. We were also glad to see our old teachers, even the ones we had always growled about, because we respected them for making us work.

When Adolfo Henriquez, our foreign exchange student from Arica, Chile, arrived in Chicago, he was thrilled by the tall buildings and the night view of the lake shore line but was even more thrilled by the friendliness of the American people. He was surprised to find that the weather was awarm. He had been under the impression that the weather was always cool here, so he had brought along a heavy winter coat. When the first snowfall came in Mishawaka, Adolfo was delighted; it was the first snow he had ever seen.

We were also glad to welcome back senior Fred Schulte who spent the summer in Italy through the Americans Abroad program. He spent his summer on the Italian Riviera and in the mountains of Italy. We were glad to be back at MHS.

WELCOME, Adolfo Henriquez, a foreign exchange student from Arica, Chile, is welcomed at O'Hare Airport in Chicago by Mr. Harold Schulte PIERCED EARS. Vikki Dalley puts on a pair of pierced carrings. She keeps her large collection of 47 pairs on a long ribbon in a handy place next to her closet.

Finally settling down to the routine of school life, we vowed to start working hard. With report card time fast approaching, many of us had to stay up late finishing reports, studying for six weeks' tests, and winding up special projects.

We weren't too busy for fun though. October and November brought a variety of assembly programs, the senior play, a Purdue Glee Club program, basketball games, celebrations after the SAT exams, and a bus trip to Michigan City sponsored by the Student Council. In our first assembly the loud and lively Hounds of Vaskerville and a perplexed professor urged students to buy their 1967 Miskodeed. The professor, Mr. Rudolf Einstiltski, stressed the importance of pretty pictures and a nice cover on a good yearbook. We listened to Mr. Sturgill and his wife play unusual instruments including a saw that made ghost-like sounds. We watched Mike Klein climb a swaying flagpole while being instructed in climbing by Mr. Lee Ouinn, a professional flagpole climber, and wondered just why a person would do this sort of thing for a living. In a more serious mood we watched the impressive induction ceremony of the National Honor Society and heard Principal Walter Thurston's sister, Miss Marie Thurston, speak, daring us to improve ourselves.

Senior Play, Anne Frank, Provokes Laughter, Tears

On November 11 and 12 a young Jewish girl told her story in the Senior Class presentation of The Diary of Anne Frank by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett. The play was directed by Mr. James Wright who spent many weeks preparing the seniors.

Anne (Becky Smith) was the young daughter of a Jewish importer, Otto Frank (Kurt Mull) and Mrs. Frank (Janis Gildner). Life went well for the Jews in Holland until the war came in 1940. Then, the Germans forced the Franks and most of the other Jews out of business, deprived them of their privileges, and required them to wear yellow stars of David. Mr. Frank and three of his closest friends, Mr. and Mrs. Van Dann (Jim Wise and Judi Cocquyt), and their son, Peter (Mark Stayton), decided to save their lives by hiding in the attic of a warchouse.

In a diary, a gift from her father, Anne writes about the things that happened to them in their attic hiding place. It is Anne's journey from childhood to an early maturity, from fear to strength, and from indifference to wisdom. When after four years of hiding, the German Green police find them, Anne alone remains calm.

Many years later the father returned to their hiding place in Amsterdam to find that all of his family and friends had died in concentration camps. Only the haunting words of his wise child Anne curbed his bitterness: "In spite of everything, I still believe that people are really good at heart."

HORROR. Grief strikes the whole group when, after two years of successfully hiding from the Germans, they are discovered by the Green Police.

Lovely Girls, Big Parade, Enhance '66 Homecoming

Teeming with school spirit and vigor, we tackled the jobs that accompanied Homecoming. A tense team spent hours on the practice field executing plays they felt would defeat the Bears. Club members spent hours and hours stuffing tissue paper in chicken wire, figuring out ways to hold up a coloring book in the wind, and finding ways to keep their float secret from all the other spying clubs. Girls vying for the Homecoming Queen title tried to control their butterflies until Homecoming day. Student Council officers organized a gigantic parade consisting of seventeen floats and found community leaders to judge the three best floats and to provide the prize money. Finally Homecoming day arrived. Two thousand anxious and excited students crowded into the stands for a pre-game pep session. Led by the band, the parade made its way to Battell Park. Then we headed home in order to get ready for the evening events.

Early in the evening enthusiastic fans gathered in the stands waiting for the game to begin. That night most girls were white pompon mums with maroon ribbons that added a bright note to the cheering section. At the half-time coronation ceremonies cheering students watched Steve Chung crown Joan Lacy Homecoming Queen and the band and choir serenade her and her court. There was even more excitement to come. MHS went on to defeat the Central Bears in the second half, 34-6. Finally the festivities ended with a Homecoming dance in the gym which attracted one of the largest crowds in several years. It was a day filled with fun and excitement that we'll never forget.

Carols and Living Pictures Mean Christmas at MHS

Frosty air, old familiar carols, the rustle of Christmas wrappings, the sight of manger scenes, choir voices, sugar cookies and roast turkey, the smell of scented candles, and the prickle of pine needles meant Christmas to MHS students.

The weeks before Christmas were packed full of fun and work. At school we put up a majestic tree in the main hall, brought food for the Share project, and deposited cards stamped with TB seals in the Hi-Y mailbox for our friends. In the evenings we practiced for Christmas Eve services in our own churches.

During vacation we planned punch parties for the Mistletoe Ball, dug out our ice skates and toboggans, watched old movies on TV, and devoured all left-over holiday "goodies."

We were very impressed by the significance of the season. Its beauty and holiness induced us to think of our soldiers in Vietnam laboring to insure for us that every Christmas will be beautiful and holy. It was a season we'll long remember. It was filled with so much beauty and wonder that we were sad when it was over.

Gigantic 17-Inch Snowfall Extends Semester Break

All too soon, January peeked around the corner, and it was time to begin studying for those finals. By Friday of exam week, 17 inches of snow covered our city, and we found that it was thoroughly impossible to get to school! We were disappointed to find that the Midsemesters' Dance had been postponed and that we would have to find other social activities such as impromptu parties to fill the extended mid-semesters' weekend.

A new semester brought new worries. We had to fill out that endless procession of program cards. For seniors it was the last time. Juniors waded through National Merit tests. Seniors were measured for caps and gowns. Besides all of this we had to find time to study and enjoy such hobbies as sewing, tinkering with cars, and reading that we had been neglecting during the year.

In February we bought carnations for our best gals and sacrificed our lunch money for the Foreign Student Drive, "Passport to the World." The sectional pep session, which was enlivened by good luck telegrams and "feminine" cheerleaders, turned out to be the noisiest one of the year.

In March talented students entertained the P.T.A. at a Variety Show with barber shop quartets, Tommy Dorsey music, and the Charleston. By the end of March, we were ready for spring.

Juniors Present Comedy Cheaper by the Dozen

On April the 7th and 8th, the high school auditorium was filled with chuckles of merriment as a nervous and excited junior cast presented the comedy Cheaper by the Dozen by Christopher Sergel. Mr. James Wright directed the play.

Cheaper by the Dozen is the comical story of the unusual Gilbreth family. Not many children have a father like Frank Gilbreth. Mr. Gilbreth, a motion study expert, traveled around the country explaining time-saving procedures to owners of factories and other businesses. And, not much to the children's delight, he often extended his time-saving programs to his large family of twelve children. Mr. Gilbreth brought home phonograph records of foreign languages so that his children could play them while taking a bath and thus not waste that time. He took movies of them washing dishes so that he could see where they could save time. He even gave them lessons on how to take a bath without wasted motions! But, although his children seldom understood him, they all loved him dearly. The saddest time of their lives was when he had to be away from them, and their happiest times were, according to Mrs. Gilbreth, when they were all together singing, putting on minstrel shows, or just talking.

Dress-Up Days, Elections

We were surprised to look up after an eventful winter and suddenly find spring at our fingertips. Our social spirit was renewed as we crammed endless banquets, the last few "Centre" dances, and parties into our already too busy schedules. We donned our Sunday-best for Easter as well as the increasingly numerous dress-up days and formal club initiations. Underclass girls strained muscles, performed intricate skills, and tried to cover up nervous smiles as they vied for cherished positions on the varsity cheerleading squad. As they practiced, they were often interrupted by track boys running laps in the gym.

We viewed Thespians quizzically as they blinked and smiled each time they passed a senior member. March brought Evaluation Week. Students tried hard to impress the committee with high standards and achievements of our high school.

Concentrating on seventh hour classes became increasingly hard as open windows brought in the dulcet sounds of the A Cappella Choir, the chatter of students on the lawn, and the roar of Hondas. On these warm days we went to baseball games at Merrifield Park, played tennis with our friends, or lounged around on the front porch while pretending to study. At night, when we should have been studying, we sometimes sneaked off with the gang to Bonnie Doons.

Finally the doors were opened at the 1967 Miskodeed Party, and eager students admonished their friends to please sign their Misko next. Student Council elections brought on the excitement of competition, the anxiety of defeat, and the prestige of victory. Juniors industriously transformed the gym into a mystical paradise for the Junior-Senior Prom. We found Mishawaka was always on the go.

Sun Burns, and Vacations

The frequent sight of sunburned noses as well as the appearance of sandals and new short hair-cuts brought assurance that summer couldn't be far away. Newly announced Miskodeed and Alltold editors found ways to improve publications while girls caught glimpses of their athletic boyfriends only between classes.

Though we displayed frivolous moods, we felt more than we showed. We were concerned when we heard of plane crashes, mass murders, and the sacrifices being made in Vietnam. By the end of the year, we vowed we would find ways to correct the problems the world faces. We had many solutions, but none of them seemed to be exactly fitted to a modern world. We found that we were often too idealistic.

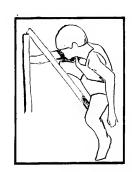

In a hot, crowded gymnasium we entertained the audience with vocal and instrumental numbers at our annual May Festival. We roused their spirits with gay marches and their patriotism with the traditional "Battle Hymn of the Republic." It was one of the most impressive programs of the year, even if the gym did reach stifling temperatures.

While underclassmen learned those last minute details before exams, seniors frittered away their two free weeks before commencement by going to Tower Hill, having parties or "messing around." We started discussing vacations early. Some of us made plans to go to California or to spend the summer at the lake, but others of us gave up fun times to gain extra credits in summer school. The year we experienced was packed full of enthusiasm, knowledge, and fun.

MESSY LOCKER. Tim Callaway cleans out his locker. On the final day of school seniors found lost gloves and over due library books, as well as sprigs of mistletoe and first drafts of themes.

Sports

Our athletic program passed before our scrutinizing eyes. Admittedly, there were disappointments, such as the heartbreaking loss to Riley in the sectional.

But we remembered the brighter moments like the Homecoming shellacking of Central.

While some people do not classify a 9-11 basketball record as breath-taking, it provided us with more victories and school spirit than in recent years plus prospects for a brighter future.

MHS Extends New Coach's Winning Tradition;

UP IN THE AIR. Craig Salyer, junior halfback, has to leap to gather in a pass against Washington.

In the season's opener for MHS, first-time rival Marian provided the competition. Eight touchdowns, five MHS fumbles, and several blocked punts by each team provided plenty of excitement for eager fans. Marian stunned the Cavemen by scoring two quick touchdowns early in the first quarter, but MHS fought back to gain the lead. Picking off an errant sidelines pass by John Ferrettie, defensive end Steve Wiseman sprinted 37 yards to the end zone for the gamewinning touchdown. Despite another touchdown by the Knights, the Cavemen held on for a 26-25 victory.

Ranked eighth in the state, Riley came to Tupper Field expecting to trample the Cavemen. They were soon shocked back to reality, however, as MHS dominated the game in all statistics but one: Riley tallied the most points. The Wildcats scored early and then hung on to withstand the Caveman onslaught. When the Maroons were forced to punt from the end zone, a bad pass from center sailed out of the playing field and gave the Wildcats their margin of victory, a safety. Later Byron Aldrich banged over from the five-yard line, but Riley's defensive line held for the rest of the game. The badly bruised and shaken Wildcats barely escaped with a 9-7 victory.

Compiles 5-4 Record

Goshen came to town the next week and found the Cavemen very inhospitable. Craig Salyer dashed 31 yards for the opening touchdown, but Goshen countered with a 21-yard scoring pass and retired at the half holding a 7-6 lead. In the second half Goshen could not stop the devastating of Chuck Hoffman and Craig Salyer. Hoffman's one-yard plunge with one minute left in the game gave MHS the win, 13-7.

The Cavemen took a beating when they traveled to School Field to tangle with Washington. Because the Cavemen were unable to hold explosive Alonzo Lowery and Lucius Turner, the Panthers scored 27 points before MHS could even get on the scoreboard. A 27-yard touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter from quarterback Don Plummer to halfback Chuck Hoffman kept the Cavemen from being completely blanked.

The Adams Eagles, led by fullback Tommy Walls, completely demolished the Maroon defense, Eagle backs repeatedly run at will through gaping holes in the MHS defensive line. Sophomore M Fultz provided Caveman fans with the only thrills of the game. He frequently ran over and around the defensive wall and occasionally threw long bombs to Caveman ends, Despite the efforts of Caveman backs, the Adams squad piled up a 40-14 win.

Michigan City hosted MHS for its homecoming game. Although the fired-up Red Devils put up a fierce fight and were never more than two touchdowns behind, they fell before the Cavemen, 13-7. With this win MHS evened its record at 3-3.

Gridders Ease by Marian in Season Opener;

WRAPPED UP. Craig Salyer and a host of Caveman tacklers engulf a Marian runner from all sides after a short gain.

TOUCHDOWN. Fullback Mike Morse plows six yards for a touchdown against Marian in the first meeting of the two varsity football teams. After spotting Marian a two touchdown lead, MHS roared back for a 26-25 win.

Homecoming was a complete success when MHS drubbed the Central Bears. The offensive team rolled up 34 points, its best effort of the season, while the defense held the Bears to a lone touchdown.

After racking up two touchdowns on Al Fultz's 18-yard scoring jaunt and Joe Kring's I-yard keeper, Elkhart scored 20 points in the second quarter to offset the Maroons' effort. A stand-off third quarter in which neither team scored showed the defensive ability of both teams. In the fourth quarter Elkhart again broke loose and put 20 more points on the scoreboard. The only scoring for MHS in the second half was a 44-yard touchdown pass from Plummer to Hoffman.

Even though Penn held the Caveman offense to 7 points, they could not cross the goal. MHS eked out a 7-0 win. On a frozen field flanked by snowbanks, both teams marched up and down the field only to be stopped by determined defensive play near the goal line. A one-yard dive by quarterback Plummer gave MHS the only touchdown and the game.

The 5-4 record compiled by Coach William Karpinski's gridders was the first winning season for MHS football teams since 1963. A 3-3 conference record enabled the Cavemen to make a fourth place finish in the NIHSC. Consistently outstanding play on both offense and defense gained senior linebacker-fullback Mike Morse the most valuable player award. Craig Salyer and Randy Shayler were elected co-captains of the 1967 grid team. Things looked bright for next year's team as many juniors would return for varsity play.

Netmen Best in 14 Years; Record 6 Wins

The MHS tennis team under new coach Mr. Jerry Shaw ran up a 6-3 record, the best for Maroon netters since 1953. Senior lettermen Steve Chung and Mark Swanson anchored the tennis team. Aiding them were senior Pat Hornbeck and sophomores Mike Boehnlein and John Gautier.

In the season's opener the netters rolled over Washington, shutting out the Panthers, 7-0. In the next outing against Goshen, however, the Redskins whipped the Maroons, 6-1. The netmen displayed their ability to bounce back by blanking Riley, 7-0, on the next day. LaPorte and Elkhart defeated the Cavemen by identical 7-0 scores in the next two matches.

Although every defeat was a conference loss, the netters finished in second place in the conference because of a first place tie among Elkhart, LaPorte, and Goshen. These were the only teams who were able to beat MHS. Against a tough Adams team John Gautier beat a previously undefeated Eagle netman. This win enabled the Maroons to squeeze by Adams 4-3 and win the last four matches of the season.

Harriers Win Five; Beat Central, Washington

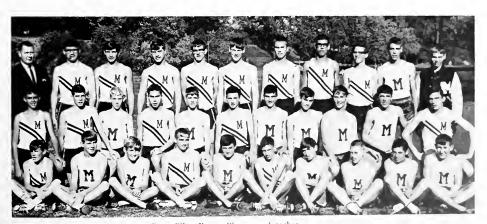

The cross country team under Coach Carl Wiseman ran to a 4-11 record, Captain Mike Mammon and senior Vaughn Schneider paced the harriers past such opponents as Clay and Washington. Mer an opening season loss the harriers won consecutive victories over New Carlisle and LaVille. MHS smashed LaVille 19-44. In spite of their two-meet winning streak, the Cavemen suffered losses in their next three matches. Showing their versatility, the harriers lost to Clay 30-25, but in the very next meet Clay fell before the Maroons by a 23-32 score. Back on the winning track, the harriers trounced Washington, 21-40.

Following the Washington meet, however, the Cavemen were unable to gain a win for the remainder of the season. Included in the eleven losses suffered by the Caveman runners was a seven-meet losing streak which ended the season. Mike Mammon will be captain of the 1967 team, and senior Gary Hartman won the Burgess Award.

Cagers Post Nine Victories;

Determination. Coach Max Eby installed that never-give-up attitude in his cagers, and they never did. The new coach and his assistant, Mr. Jerry Shaw, developed their inexperienced crew into a veteran unit that on many nights worked with clock-like precision while running up a respectable 9-11 record.

The new season started as the old had left off, with a loss. Plymouth outgunned the Maroons 61 to 55. Then something unheard of in recent years at MHS happened. The cagers won four games before losing to conference foe Riley. Included in the streak was a 74-41 pasting of Marian. A 52-point second half and a tight, full-court press, which forced the Knights into 13 errors, helped smother hapless Marian.

MHS traveled to Riley trying to break a 25-game NIC losing streak, but the Wildcats pulled away after a tough first quarter and coasted to a 77-57 win.

Penn raced to a 7-1 lead early in the first quarter before the Maroons got hot and scorched the net with a 47 per cent shooting average that buried the Kingsmen, 79-60.

Elkhart and Adams added to Mishawaka's conference losing streak, running it to 28 straight. The Cavemen finally won a conference game when they squeezed by Washington, 60-58. Capitalizing on 28 personal fouls called on the aggressive Panthers, the Maroons converted 30 free throws at the charity stripe to gain the victory. Despite a frantic fourth quarter rally by the Panthers, Mike DeNeve's pair of free throws with 40 seconds remaining put the game on ice for MHS.

Upset Logansport; Snap NIC Losing Streak

The Maroons almost pulled what might have been the upset of the year against Fort Wayne South. Pouring in shots from the outside, the Cavemen were only one point behind with eight seconds remaining in the game. South's Dave Lee went to the foul line and missed, but a Maroon player was called for disconcerting the free throw shooter. Lee made one and missed the next, but Willie Long grabbed the rebound and stuffed it in for the final two points of the game.

Anticipating an easy time, ninth-ranked Logansport visited the MHS gym. Dominating the backboards and taking advantage of 21 personals called on the Berries, the Maroons led throughout the game. Despite several Logansport threats, MHS held and finally pulled out a 67-57 victory.

Luck was with MHS when they drew punchless St. Joe for the sectional opener. The Indians, beaten 66 to 52 by the Maroons earlier in the season, fell again 56 to 44. Riley had defeated the Cavemen by 20 points in early December; however, they found the going much tougher in sectional play. Mike DeNeve kept MHS in the game by incredibly hitting 18 free throws in a row. With eight seconds left Craig Salyer threw in what appeared to be the tying basket, but a palming violation nullified the score. Willie Shannon's desperation shot bounded off the rim, and Riley came off a 68-66 victor.

For the first time in three years, MHS did not finish in the conference cellar. Their nine wins included two conference victories which placed them seventh. The B-team ran up a 7-11 record.

Grapplers Lose Grip on Wins, Drop Eight;

FIRST PLACE. Dave Futterknecht, Jim Mazurkiewicz, and Larry Vaerewyck admire the Penn Invitational trophy.

Post-season matches and a holiday meet brightened an otherwise dull season for Mr. Al Smith's wrestling team. With seven varsity wrestlers returning this year, Coach Smith anticipated a winning year for the grapplers, but a 4-8 record proved him wrong. The highlight of the year during regular matches was the matmen's 24-21 win over Niles. The Vikings had previously beaten or tied four South Bend schools who had all defeated MHS. During the Riley meet officials ruled that a Wildcat wrestler had competed illegally. When MHS was awarded the points, they missed a win by one point. The Cavemen massed 44 points while holding Michigan City to 8 in overwhelming the Red Devils. In another match MHS crushed Jackson by scoring 56 points and holding the Tigers scoreless.

The matmen won the Penn Invitational during the holidays. Individual winners were Larry Vaerewyck at 135 pounds and Dave Futter-knecht in the 95-pound weight class.

MHS fared well in the sectional, capturing second place. Dave Futterknecht was beaten 13-7 in the final match, Jim Mazurkiewicz was downed 6-3, and George Duleh was also decisioned. George Roelandts edged his opponent in the 123-weight class 12-11. Only Roelandts managed to advance to the regionals; however, wrestling at 120, a Fort Wayne Concordia wrestler defeated him.

For the first time the freshmen gained merit in the freshman wrestling tourney by placing third. Brent Lea at 180 and Steve Dentino at 112 won first places in their weight classes. Because of postponements due to bad weather, the conference meet could not be held, so MHS finished the season with a 2-5 conference record, their two wins coming against LaPorte and Michigan City. In spite of Mishawaka's poor showing in both conference and regular season meets, Coach Smith can look forward to next year when he will have six returning varsity wrestlers around whom he can build the team.

Linksmen Lack Luster, Lose Eleven Straight

With a record of 1-11 and a team composed entirely of underclassmen, the golf squad's only bright spot was that things had to be better in '67. Even though it was a long, slow season for Coach John Chelminiak's linksmen, improvement marked the latter part of the year. Starting out slowly, the golfers managed to come close in only a few matches. In their second match against Washington, however, the golfers began to show some strength as MHS lost by only three strokes. After three other close but losing decisions, the linksmen won their final match of the season to avert a totally losing season. The golfers finished 13th in a field of 15 in the Culver Invitational and placed 8th in the sectional. Freshman Dennis Kring was top man for the golfers with Bob Fitzsimmons, the second man. Because of valuable experience gained, the linksmen should fare well in 1967.

Tankers Sink to 5-8 Mark

Lacking depth, the 1967 swimming team dropped to a 5-8 record after two previous winning seasons. "If we had had one or two more boys who could pick up a second or a third, we might have won four more meets," commented Coach Walter Ross. The tanker-opened the season with three quick victories but lost the next eight of nine meets before defeating Goshen in the final match of the season. Top point scorers for the Maroons were Dennis Aguirre and Bill Coleman in the sprint freestyle events, Tom Grau in the distance freestyle, Steve Iden in the individual medley, and Kurt Kaboth in the butterfly. Kaboth qualified for the state meet with a 1:03.2 in the 100-yard butterfly. The 400-yard relay of Iden, Grau, Coleman, and Aguirre set a school record with a time of 3:45.0.

SAFE. Terry Callaway is safe at first as the ball gets by the Penn first baseman. The Cavemen squeezed by Penn, 4 to 3.

Diamondmen Lack Luster;

Victories as well as defeats came in clusters, but the 1966 baseball team managed to win 4 of 8 contests in Coach Don Portolese's final season. The Cavemen could not push across a run in their first 25 consecutive innings of the season. To start the season, they lost to Central, 2-0, and St. Joe, 3-0. Then in the pitching duel of the season against Goshen, senior hurlers Terry Callaway and Dave Frank pitched eleven scoreless innings. However, the Goshen moundsmen matched their performance; the marathon game was called, a 0-0 tie.

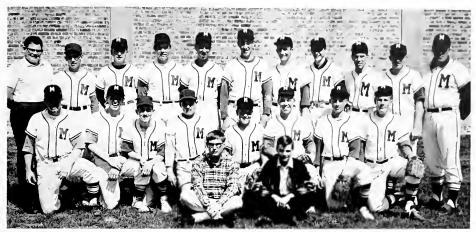

The Maroons finally picked up their first run and their first victory of the year against Elkhart by a 3-0 score. Then the Cavemen went on to win their next two contests against LaSalle and Penn before dropping two against Washington and Central. In their second encounter against Goshen, the Maroons gained revenge for their earlier season frustrations by whipping the Redskins, 9-4. From that point on, however, the diamondmen could not win. They were defeated in their final four contests against Michigan City, Riley, Adams, and LaPorte. In the Twin City Tournament the Cavemen found themselves on the short end of a 5-0 score at the hands of an inexperienced Jackson team.

The B-Team under Coach John Danaher squeaked their way to a winning 8-7 record. Pitching was the strong point of the B-Team as eight of their games were decided by a one-run margin. Because of the vacancy left by Mr. Portolese's resignation, Mr. Danaher assumed responsibility for the varsity baseball team while Mr. Clyde Severs handled the B-Team in the spring of 1967.

About Face! That was the theme of the 1966 track squad as they compiled a 6-4 record as compared to a dismal 3-7 a year ago. Even more outstanding was the contrast of the Maroons' performances in the last two sectionals. The Cavemen failed to score a single point in the 1965 sectional but came back with a tremendous team effort to win the coveted championship in 1966.

In the first indoor meet in recent MHS history, the Maroons were defeated by Goshen, 65-53. The out-of-doors proved much more to their liking as they won their next two meets before losing to Adams in the last event. The thinlies closed out the season by winning their last four to finish the season with a credible 6-4 record.

Top-flight individual performances and a record-breaking relay team contributed to the Maroons' success. The mile-relay team composed of Steve Hazen, George Marzotto, Jerry Herron, and Larry Minzey shattered the school record with a time of 3:28.8 against Central. Hazen also captured first place honors in the sectional and the conference in the low hurdles and finished fourth in that event at the regional. Minzey won the 440 in the sectional and ran second in the conference. Picking up valuable points for the Maroons in the field events, pole vaulters Stan Denney, Jerry Herron, and high jumper Ted Spear placed in both the conference and the sectional. With the exception of Marzotto and Spear, most of the trackmen returned in 1967. Frank Canarecci won the Burgess Award as well as the second annual George F. Wilson Award given to the outstanding athlete for character, athletic ability, and scholarship.

The M-Men's Club under sponsor Mr. John Danaher set a precedent when they constructed a float for the Homecoming Parade. The cheerleaders contributed ideas, and the M-Men supplied the building skill. Selling programs at football games brought in money to take a proposed trip to Chicago to see a hockey game. The group elected George Duleh, president; Sam Travis, secretary; and Larry Minzey, treasurer.

The Athletic Council reviewed budgets for sports teams, approved letter winners, and solved other problems pertaining to athletics at MHS. Officers were Mr. John Chelminiak, president; Mr. Donald Cromer, vice-president; and Mr. Eugene Dykstra, secretary. Other members were the coaches, the ticket manager, the principal, the assistant principals, the president of the board of control, and the president of the Student Council.

The freshman football team under Mr. Al Smith managed to keep above the .500 mark with a 4-3 record. Wins over Central, Adams. Riley, and Jackson gave the freshmen a winning season. In the final game a defeat by LaSalle evened the freshman basketball record at 8-8. Mr. Carl Wiseman's freshmen lost the first game of the freshman tournament to St. Joe. The freshmen's 8-8 record is a slight improvement over last year's 7-9 mark.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS – Janis Grook, Lori Eiswald, Captain Mary Hunter, Sue Ann Fagan, Debbie Werbrouck, Mascot Julie Werbrouck stands in front. The life of a cheerleader was not always glamorous. Early in the summer the girls held a car wash to earn money for new uniforms. With persuasive selling, some assistance from parents, and an extra amount of energy, the girls earned over $340.00. To lead fans in cheers, the girls rehearsed many extra hours, including early morning practices. Under the direction of Mrs. Louise Gould, the cheerleaders introduced many new yells including "We're the Champs" and the new "Good Luck." As a new touch, the varsity cheerleaders acquired a mascot, Debbie Werbrouck's four-year old sister, Julie. Boosting the team at away games, the cheerleaders made trips to Muncie, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis.

The Cheerblock, sponsored by Miss Mary Nicholson and Mr. Donald Cromer, added volume to the cheerleaders' yells at home basketball games. Of the 87 members, 58 were freshmen.

VICTORY. The freshman-dominated cheerblock raise their hands with the victory sign at the Penn game. The cheerblock attended all home games.

"Buy M-Spring For Sectional" Says GAA

Selling "M Springs," maroon pipe cleaners in the shape of an M, the Girls Athletic Association introduced a "must" for every tourney fan. The 58 GAA members participated in a varied program of athletics: badminton, volleyball, speedball, soccer, basketball, bowling, archery, softball, tumbling, tennis, and trampoline work. Under a point system for attendance and athletic ability, the girls carned GAA pins, numerals, and letters.

Although most GAA activities took place at school, many girls participated in various tournaments at area schools. Marcia Brown and Linda Asper took a third place in the doubles event at the District H badminton tournament at Plymouth in October.

During the basketball season, as a service to the school, the GAA operated a coat checkroom in study hall 245. Another successful money-making project was a car wash which helped make up a deficit from last year.

Members of the GAA promoted and ran several interclass tournaments. In November they supervised competition in badminton, table tennis, and bowling. A volleyball tournament in which twelve teams competed was held in January.

The initiation of new members and a mother-daughter banquet highlighted the year. This year 12 initiates submitted to the torture of walking through peanut butter and rubbing maple syrup through their hair. The girls received their awards at the Mother-Daughter Honor Banquet. The introduction of new officers concluded the banquet and an active year for the Girls Athletic Association.

Personalities

When we looked at ourselves, all 2080 of us, we found that we're really extremely different—in size, in shape, in background, in ambitions, in ability. We discovered that, as tomorrow's citizens, we expected to pursue different vocations. We also differed in many other ways such as religious and political beliefs. We began to compare ideas, to think for ourselves, and to form our own sets of morals and guidelines. We learned from our differences.

With Praise for 19 Years of Excellent Work,

Board Accepts Dr. John Young's Resignation

In November Dr. John J. Young announced his retirement in June as the superintendent of schools. Under his supervision the School City grew and improved. The enrollment rose from 4,800 to 6,800; the professional staff from 190 to 310; the size of school property from 30 to 143.5 acres. During his tenure Dr. Young supervised the additions to five elementary schools, two additions to the high school, and the building of Emmons School.

More important than the physical changes were the educational improvements. Remedial reading and modern math programs were started throughout the system. Foreign languages were introduced on the elementary level. In the high school French was reinstated and German was added to the curriculum. Dr. Young sought solutions to the dropout problem and directed the thinking about this problem. Recently he has initiated plans for adding new vocational shops as part of the solution.

Dr. Young has been respected and liked by community leaders and school personnel. Principal Walter Thurston says, "For 19 years I have been impressed by the impact that Dr. Young has made. In the community his unselfish service, integrity, and ability to inspire others have made Mishawaka a better place to live. His able leadership, high standards for education, and creative ideas have made this an excellent school system. I shall always be thankful for the personal guidance he has given me as a principal in Mishawaka on both the high school and junior high level.

VIOLINIST. In retirement Dr. Younwill have time for community alfairs and hobbies: playing the violin and bowling RESIGNATION. Mr. Delmar Anderson, president of the school board, accepts retiring Dr. John J. Young's resignation at the board's meeting.

Executives Resolve Policies, Set Up Goals, and Make Changes for Year

In his second year as principal, Mr. Walter E. Thurston made many changes and improvements at MHS. From accelerating the sale of school supplies at the start of the semesters to changes in the physical set up, Mr. Thurston eyed every facet of the school with the intent to improve it.

Mr. Thurston and the science teachers made plans to renovate the physics and chemistry labs in the summer of 1967. To replace the half-century old equipment and furniture they ordered new costing $27,669, replaced the old plumbing, and rewired and enlarged the labs at a cost of $10,000.

The Business Education Department received new typing tables and chairs. The purchase of five new Selectric typewriters required Room 210 to be rewired. To replace the 30-year old model, the print shop acquired a new press. Students in the Home Economics labs made use of new tables and chairs. Approximately 100 new lockers replaced old and broken ones.

In addition to material changes Mr. Thurston felt that the spirit of pride each student and teacher has toward MHS improved. The student body according to Mr. Thurston has cooperated well in trying to develop loyalty, an atmosphere conducive for learning, and good citizenship.

Mr. Thurston credited Dr. John J. Young for helping him to set up goals to accomplish during his tenure as principal at MHS. He said. "Dr. Young and the school board have given me complete cooperation in order to attain Mishawaka's goals."

Seniors End Their Last Year, One Alive

HAND IN HAND. Sparkling class rings quickly identify any senior. The rings, which were received in August, have a marroon stone for the first time at MHS.

The school year of 1966-1967 transformed a long-awaited dream into reality for the senior class. They returned to school in the fall looking forward to their final year. Now the top brass, they entered the building with an air of superiority, anticipating a year full of the fun and excitement that comes with being seniors.

They realized that being a senior-was not all sweetness. It also meant acting like young adults, taking studies seriously, and being good sports. It meant responsibility. Seniors set the pace for MHS and improved school morale. They knew the school would be judged by their actions. But besides responsibilities, seniors had privileges. Class rings, main hall lockers, and a sure-win in the class battle cry were their status symbols.

College-bound seniors looked through college bulletins, took entrance examinations, and applied for admissions. Others hunted for goodpaying jobs or enlisted in the service, They asked themselves, "What does the future hold?" But they could only wait.

As graduation neared, seniors studied and crammed for final examinations and practiced and prepared for Commencement. They felt nervous as they faced graduation. Commencement brought with it tears, laughter, and recollections of happy times. The Senior Class of 1967 left MHS regretful that their four years went so swiftly, joyous of their graduation, confident of their ability to cope with enevitable problems, yet apprehensive of stepping into a fast moving society.

SCHOLARIA SUNIOR—Gowined senior on Class Day take timed wirings in typing, clean out test times in climistry or empty lockers for the last time. But Mari Swanson leaves school in an inischolarly manner on a skate board.

Juniors Elect Own Officers; Work Hard on Their Float

All in all the juniors had a fun-filled year. The 430 enthusiastic juniors, proud of their new status, assumed offices in clubs and headed committees. They elected class officers, ordered senior rings, joined National Honor Society, and presented their class play. Sue Hess and Roger Brady were elected to the Board of Control. Because many of the boys played football and basketball, juniors attended the games to see their classmates on the field and floor. After the games they congregated at the local drive-ins to gorge themselves with hamburgers, onion rings, and cokes. Wearing paisley shirts and belts, the guys walked their steadies to class. In June these boys donned white dinner jackets and cummerbunds as they escorted their dates to the prom. In April political hopefuls filled the halls with posters announcing their candidacies for 1967-68 Student Council offices, One candidate's posters carried out the theme from Charlie Brown comics, another's theme centered around a carnival, and another's "ride the wave with Dave." In May juniors ordered class rings and talked excitedly about the fun of wearing that senior status symbol in August,

With their new prestige they delighted in sending a lonely freshman to the wrong room at the beginning of the year. In addition to experimenting with horn-rimmed glasses, textured over-the-knee socks, and short skirts, many sophomore girls gazed in admiration at those senior boys with their driver's licenses and souped-up cars. To meet the competition, sophomore boys took drivers' education.

In activities second-year students increased the membership of clubs and worked on committees. With new ideas for improving MHS, fourteen sophomores took an active part in the Student Council. Barb Kalil represented the class on the Board of Control. Sophomores too had fun at football and basketball games although they often walked to the drive-in afterwards. After school and on Saturdays they played pool at one of the local billiard rooms. On Friday nights sophomores danced at the Meth to hit tunes. In the spring some used new drivers licenses to tear hither and yon. Others headed for Tower Hill to get an early tan. It was a gay year, a mad year, and a serious year.

Freshmen Find High School Very Exciting

PROGRAM CARDS. Freshman students fill out approximately ten program cards for the first semester of the new school year.

At the beginning of September, 554 bright, anxious faces entered Mishawaka High School for the first time. Coming from various public and parochial schools, the class of 1970 was bewildered at first, but soon became accustomed to a new and exciting high school life. They had their own football team and for the first time, their own cheerleaders. Another first was a Cub Club which was composed entirely of promising freshman students interested in working on the Miskodeed or Alltold. Through clubs and sports, freshmen made many new friends who had attended other junior highs.

Freshmen regarded the new northeast section as their own because most of their classes were located there. Venturing into other sections, freshmen encountered many new rules and regulations. They found that the library was only for work and not for conversation. Some girls lengthened their dresses, while boys cut off their bangs to meet dress regulations.

By June freshmen were "pros" at this business of high school. They found more prestige in being high school students instead of junior high students. A little taller, more self-confident, and more mature, freshmen eagerly awaited the arrival of their sophomore year.

Art Editor Faye Walters creates a wintry scene on the bulletin board to add cheer to Room 219.

From his perch atop the filing cabinet in 219, Mr. Edward Andros "looks at us," the 1967 Mi-kodeed staff.

We Look at Ourselves

We, the yearbook staff, look at the past year with mixed emotions. While we jokingly questioned the intelligence of the juniors who signed up for the 1968 staff, we realized that, given the choice again, we wouldn't hesitate to do it all over. The monotony of working towards deadlines was broken by bull sessions, birthday parties, and little incidents like Laureen VanderHeyden's amusing game called "two hundred card pick-up." To play this game, one must first spend an hour alphabetizing file cards, then dump them unceremoniously on the floor. "Where's Peter?" became a well-worn expression as frustrated Miskoeditors hunted Pete Dexter, the photographer. His duties included venturing into the girls' restroom to take a picture of a girl trying on false evelashes, As in any publication, errors were a constant source of amusement. Pam Karnes got first prize for her "four hundred year old record of a tortoise calling its mate." Actually, the tortoise, not the record, was four hundred years old. But amid all our fooling around, we learned through experience. Helping poor souls caught napping at deadlines taught us the value of teamwork. The importance of proofreading became clear when errors kept popping up in copy even after the third or fourth reading. Most important of all, though, we learned how to accept responsibility on a large scale. The process of putting out a quality vearbook is a long and difficult one, and you, dear reader, are hard to please. The book is ready for bed now, and we hope that you will be pleased with

"We Look at Ourselves."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The entire Miskodeed staff wishes to thank all the people who helped to make the 1967 Miskodeed possible. Thanks to Mr. Larry Wells of the Associates Engraving Company, who assisted us with our layout and helped us pick the best pictures; Mr. Jack Bundy and the S. K. Smith Company, who made the cover after the staff members chose the design and color; Mr. Edward Andros and Mr. Russell Chubb who took many of our pictures and developed all of our film; and the Messrs. Toms and George Graessle of the Graessle-Mercer Company, Seymour, Indiana, who printed and bound our book.

We are also grateful to the students and faculty of MHS. Miss Rosa Weikel advised us on the cover and art work, and Mr. Kenneth Armel helped us select the proper type. Backgrounds were set up for activity pictures by Mr. Edward Fleming and the stage crew. English and sponsor room teachers assisted with underclass pictures; Miss Thelma Martin answered our questions concerning grammar problems; and the teachers who patiently answered our many questions about their subjects and activities. We would also like to thank the Student Council members who helped with the subscription drives.
